COMPLICATED CASE IS BEFORE COURT AT COUNTY SEAT

Judge Deplores the Fact So Many Expect Court To Settle Problems

A HULMEVILLE CASE

Father Scoffs at Saying of Grace; Mother Trades Car for Accordion

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 6.—A Hulmeville father, John Warren, was upbraided in court on Tuesday by Judge Calvin S. Boyer after it has been brought out that he scoffed when his five-year-old daughter said grace at the table. Having also learned that Mrs. Warren traded her car for an accordian, Judge Boyer commented: "This case has almost every complication the Court can think of in connection with human relations. He deplored the fact that too many estranged couples think the Court, by its wisdom or magic, can settle their domestic problems.

The defendant, Warren, who is employed at the Croydon Skypark and earns less than $45 a week, was directed by Judge Boyer to pay $20 for the support of his wife Gladys, and two small children.

"You expect the Court to settle for you the ownership of your home by entirety, the payment of installments, the problem of living in the same house but not eating together and practically everything else," Judge Boyer said severely.

Mrs. Warren, who purchased a luncheonette on the Bristol pike, testified she has more than $600 in the business, and has only had one offer, $300, for its purchase so far.

Highlights in Message Of President Truman

"The state of the Union is good" and the United States "is foremost among the nations of the world in the search for peace," President Truman told the Eighty-first Congress in his annual message yesterday. "He called for increased taxes, presented an eight-point anti-inflation program, restated his policies on civil rights and welfare, and again demanded universal military training, but deferred detailed comment on foreign affairs.

Taxes must be increased by $4,000,000,000 to balance the budget and to reduce the national debt, the President said. Mr. Truman did not call for reinstatement of the excise profits tax, but urged higher taxes on corporations and personal incomes in the upper and middle brackets.

Industry viewed with concern that part of the President's economic program that would grant the Government power to build plants if necessary to speed production in critically short materials, especially steel. Labor hailed his demand for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law and the reinstatement of the Wagner Act, with amendments.

Housing should be expanded to more than 1,000,000 units, the President said, and a bill to that effect was promptly introduced by Senate Democrats. In his passage on welfare, Mr. Truman asked Cabinet status for the Federal Security Agency, administering many of the programs.

Immediate Congressional reaction indicated that a large part of the President's recommendations would be enacted into law.

ON THE WAY DOWN

This is the time when economists, prognosticators and plain guessers take advantage of the calendar to peek around the corner and reveal what's going to happen this year. The economists are in better position than, say, the sportscaster who tries to pick the winner of the National League pennant.

Those who predict business cycles have less to do with the purely human element (such as an unknown pinch hitter whose triple may sew up the series) and their predictions, barring an international upheaval, should be fairly accurate.

But the Wall Street Journal, in its annual outlook, comments that economists venturing into statistical measurement of business activity ahead are allowing themselves wider leeway than usual. Presumably they want elbow room to reconcile such uncertainties as a sudden bulge in military expenditures, or a rise in ECA gifts, or a sudden drop in employment, or other variables that greatly complicate the nation's economy.

They predict that the boom is passing, and that inflationary tendencies have lost much of their initial force. What this portends in the form of relief in high living costs is not quite clear, but presumably drops in prices are in the wind.

After peering fruitlessly into this murky picture with its low overcast of business indices, it was encouraging to read that one of the mail order catalogues shows an average price decline of 1.7 per cent. On the face of it, that's not much of a drop. It means that what cost one dollar formerly can now be had for 98¢ and a fraction cents. But it is a reduction, for a change, and it has been announced by a company that sells almost all types of consumer goods except food and automobiles.

THEY BREATHE FREELY

The latest word from the oracles of science is that eating garlic and onions won't do anything to prevent colds. Posh! Only the gullible will believe it.

Let's examine the "proof." Laboratory workers were inoculating volunteers with a respiratory virus. Some of the human guinea pigs ate onions or garlic; others didn't. Later there was a count of noses: Onion-eaters, garlic-eaters and abstainers all had colds in equal proportion.

This test is conclusive of just one thing—that garlic and onions are no protection against deliberate inoculation with colds. But that isn't the way people catch colds. They get them mostly by inhaling air infected by people who cough or sneeze in close proximity.

Eat enough garlic and onions and people won't get too close to you. If they don't get too close, you won't catch their colds. Don't let science tell you different.

Uncle Sam: Trustee

If the time comes when the American people don't see this distinction, and assume that because Uncle Sam is trustee for the nation's wealth, the government owns it and can spend it as the national officers wish—then we will no longer be a free republic. We will have moved bodily over into socialism. It is Communist Russia, for example, that believes the State owns everything, its citizens nothing.

The matter of Uncle Sam's trusteeship becomes especially important during times like the present. We are far along in inflation. Prices of everything are far above normal; some of them three times or more what they were only three or four years ago.

There is great uneasiness about the future. Many signs exist that we are about to undergo a readjustment, in which there will be a general decline of these inflated prices. Most everyone agrees that we need some measure of deflation, as an antidote for the rapid inflation since the end of the war.

Now, when it comes to government spending—or to spending by anyone, and especially those who are trustees for others—there are excellent financial arguments for postponing anything which can be delayed, so that it may be bought or built for considerably less money sometime in the future.

Current reports out of Wall Street are that many industrial corporations have pushed off plans for expansion, waiting to see whether these cannot be made for much less capital expenditure at some future date.

There is every sign that the public itself has made the same decision—for example, with regard to housing. Demand for new homes has fallen way off, in the face of present high prices. Obviously, many who want homes are waiting for what they feel is inevitable—a chance to buy the dwellings at a large reduction from present prices.

In private affairs, a trustee who bought at the top of the market, when he could have bought for much less merely by waiting a while, would be severely criticized for his negligence.

Does the same principle apply to government? It is not being applied to the national government by President Truman. He has not retrenched Federal spending. The higher prices go, the more he spends. Federal spending has become one of the biggest of the inflationary factors—every time we have approached a sufficiency of any scarce commodity, the government has bought it up and thus re-created the scarcity.

The coming Truman budget is expected to be the biggest budget yet. A great deal of it is devoted to long range programs, which, if delayed a year or two, would make no great difference. If the government were to hold these over, the resulting savings might run far into the billions of tax dollars. Moreover, the mere fact that Uncle Sam was doing something tangible to stop the inflationary cycle would be the strongest reinforcement to our weakening national credit which it is possible to imagine.

If the White House concept of the national government's first job was that of being a trustee for the resources of the American people, there is no question that Uncle Sam would be waiting out the present high prices—that he would postpone all non-emergency spending until costs come down.

But that is not the White House concept of the government's responsibility. The Truman emphasis is on spending—on the Keynesian idea of pouring out government appropriations as a means of keeping inflation alive.

It is argued at Washington that any curtailing of government spending would be "deflationary." Of course, it would. But how, except by deflation, are we ever going to get away from continued inflation?

This government spending policy, in its present form, was introduced by the New Deal between 1934 and 1936. It was first called "pump-priming."

It was no secret then that over-spending by Uncle Sam was inflationary—that's what it was intended to be.

Now, at the peak of inflation, we are witnessing constantly increased government spending—at the very moment when our leaders are declaiming about how badly they want to "hold the line" against further inflation!

This doesn't make sense. It's as silly as someone who had started a fire with kerosene, trying to put it out by pouring on still more kerosene!

As the American people are going to find out to their sorrow one of these days, Uncle Sam has been making a botch of his job as trustee of their resources.

Future generations especially are not going to be satisfied with any accounting of stewardship which can ever be rendered on behalf of the present national government.

The heritage of Americans—their wealth and their freedoms—are in process of being despoiled.

"Security" and "liberalism" today—and bankruptcy tomorrow!

Moore Named Pres't Of County Directors

It has also opened the way for consideration of preliminary plans for a new school building in Lower Southampton township. The state department has rejected three petitions from Bucks County school boards for preliminary consideration of building needs. The rejections were based on the fact that the proposed reorganization was not complete or did not cover the operation of all grades in the school system.

HULMEVILLE

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Edward VanArtsdalen and Mrs. William Vansant left for Daytona Beach, Fla., where they will remain for the balance of the winter.

Following 19 days holiday vacation spent at their homes, here, Lorraine Smith and Arthur Linsinger returned on Tuesday to Overbrook School for the Blind, Overbrook.

The following attended a luncheon at the residence of Mrs. Edward Davis, yesterday: Mrs. Roland Scribner, Mrs. Edward Bilger, Mrs. Harry Claus, Mrs. Anna Hozarth, Mrs. Ashbel Buckman, Mrs. Samuel Everitt, Mrs. Horace C. Cox, Mrs. E. D. Adler, Mrs. Joseph Everitt, Mrs. Uwellan Miller. The affair was sponsored by the Ladies' Bible Class of Nesaminy Methodist Sunday School. Identity of class "sisters" was revealed and new ones chosen for 1949.

Wayne Schneider on Sunday concluded a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Schneider, and returned to studies at West Chester State Teachers College.

Near-Record Attendance Chalked Up By Club

Last evening's meeting of the Aeromodelers was one of near-record attendance. The new president, Gordon Pearson, took office for the year.

A door prize, donated by Abrams Hobby Shop, was won by Thomas Holeman, who joined the club last evening. Other members who have joined recently are: Robert Gillies, Dwight Spencer, Joseph Hibbs, William Gregg and Wayne Williams.

Members expressed eagerness to begin practice flying to prepare for the 1949 contest season. It will probably begin in late April or early May. Among the contests under preparation are: Doylestown, New Hope, Far Hills (N. J.), Lansdale, Norristown, and Trenton (N. J.).

A door prize will be given at next week's meeting and another showing of "movies" is also planned.

Nineteen Women Gather For Auxiliary Meeting

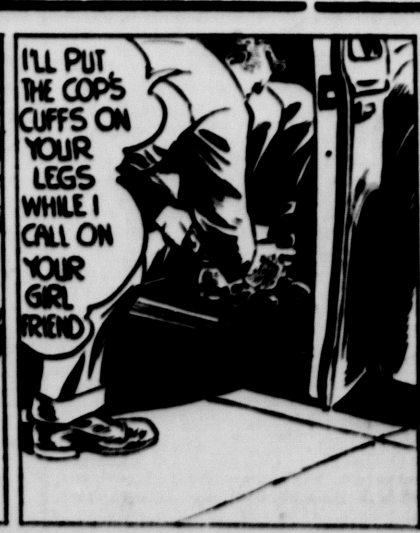

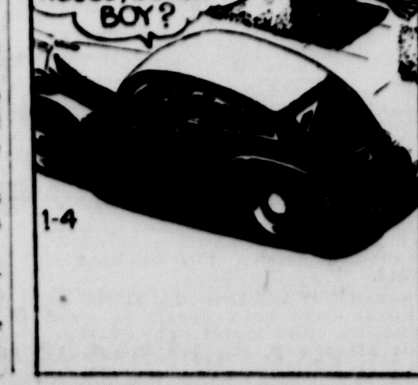

EDGELY, July 6.—There were 19 members of the Ladies Auxiliary of Headley Manor Fire Co. at the monthly meeting in the fire station on Tuesday evening.

The sick committee reported that flowers had been sent to Mrs. Turner Ashby, a patient in Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia. Mrs. Fred Hibbs, chairman of the pinocle party to be held on January 12th, in the fire station, made an appeal for prizes and cakes.

Refreshments of hamburgers and coffee were served by Mrs. George Bintliff, Jr., Mrs. Blanche Carnvale, and Mrs. Fred Hibbs.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

BE ECONOMICAL this 1949, not by refusing to buy the new things you need, but by protecting the things you already have. I'll bet, for example, that you haven't enough protective covers for your mattresses or bedsprings. Right? Well, they're waiting for you, and at a nice, reasonable price, in the Bed Linens Dept. of Snellenburgs. These good, "Sanitized" unbleached covers are priced at $3.88 each. They're even zipped! Well-fitting covers such as these have been very, very scarce since before the war. Hurry to get yours. (2nd fl.)

EVEN ONE SNOW a year calls for sleds! No household with children or teenagers should be without one or more. Why not invest for winter fun while the Toy Dept. of Snellenburgs still has those good "Speed-away" sleds in stock? There are two practical sizes, a 38 inch priced at $4.98 and a 42 inch priced at $6.50. "Speedaways" are made of selected Northern hardwood, finished with two coats of protective varnish. The metal parts are finished with high-grade baked enamel, for wear. The runners are spring steel. On some dark night you might like to do a bit of belly-bumpin' yourselves! So? (4th fl.)

DAILY ORDER makes housekeeping easier on both the muscles and the disposition. That's why I keep recommending those handy little cabinets of drawers to be found in such variety in the Notions Dept. of Snellenburgs. You have a choice of two constructions—wood covered with pretty chintz, or heavy cardboard reinforced by wood framing and covered with delightful wallpapers. With reasonable care, the cabinets will last for years. They come in all sizes. Use them for lingerie, baby or children's clothes, as sewing cabinets, for stockings, shoes, etc. The papered cabinets cost, according to the size, $4.98 to $8.98. One chintz-covered wood cabinet, measuring 16x13x34 ins., containing five drawers, is priced at $11.98. They're all gay, decorative—you'll like them. (1st fl.)

BLANKETS at Snellenburgs are always full value for one's money. There's a nice all-Virgin-wool number of generous size—80 x 90 in.—that is a good buy at the regular price of $10.95. And now, during January, you may have it for $9.95. It is a fluffy, well-napped 4 1/2 lb. number, bound in 6 in. rayon satin. Colors are: rose, blue, green, cedar. (2nd fl.) (1st fl.)

TO KNOW YOURSELF is to be able to plan a well-lived day, a well-lived life, with a minimum of mistakes. You who like me to recommend worthwhile books will be glad to hear of Lawrence Gould's "The Way to Be Happy", published just in time to help you, and the people you must live with, to have the most deeply satisfying year of your lives. Psychologists have said that this Gould book is one of the best books to help us laymen to help ourselves. The Book Dept. of Snellenburgs has copies for you. Why not order NOW? The price is $2.95. The content of the book is beyond price. (1st fl.)

P.S. Do send clippings with mail orders when you can! Phone free (5c, 10c, and 15c out-of-town calls only). Penna.—ENT. 10160; Jersey—WX-4150. Shop located Market, 11th to 12th Sts., Phila.—through to 1125-29 Chestnut St. Be hearin' from you!

Travelogue To Be Presented Before Club Members, Friday

A travelogue, with Miss Elma E. Haefner as narrator, will be presented to Bristol Travel Club members and their guests tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in the club home. Miss Haefner will show pictures which she took in the Hawaiian Islands while vacationing there this past summer. The pictures are in color and show many interesting scenes of that enchanting island. The program is in charge of Mrs. Serrill D. Detlefson, and tea will be poured by Mrs. H. Wesley Spencer and Mrs. Frank Lehman.

Today's Quiet Moment

By The Rev. Herman H. Doh
Pastor
Andalusia Baptist Church

Lord God and Heavenly Father, Thou knowest how dull we are to Thy Presence and how deaf to Thy call; quicken us by Thy Holy Spirit that we may hear Thy still, small voice; that we might be willing to spend and be spent for Thee. We pray that by Thy grace Thou mayest be able to accomplish Thy will for us and for others, by yielding ourselves to Thee. May we recognize Thy divine sovereignty in all things that our spirits might be free. Amen.

Complicated Case is Before The Court at County Seat

She testified that her husband, a Catholic, made fun of their small daughter when she went to a Methodist Sunday school and said grace at the table. "He told her not to believe in that stuff and the child cried."

The defendant-husband said his wife traded her car in for a 120-key bass accordion and lost $175 on the deal.

The couple, married in 1940 and have two children, a girl, five, and a 21-month-old son. Although the wife had her husband arrested on November 14th because he gave her only $10 a week for the support of herself and two children, the four of them continue to live in the same house.

The husband, who was directed to pay costs of prosecution of more than $18 on the hearing, was also directed by Judge Boyer to pay $5 a week on real estate installments towards the purchase of the home.

Bracken Post-Members Enjoy Historical Films

At the regular meeting of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 282, American Legion, on Tuesday evening, Forrest A. Ward presented motion pictures, showing how tobacco is grown, cured, and sold at auction, also the method of manufacturing and packing cigarettes. Mr. Ward presented samples of cigarettes to each member present.

Following a short business meeting motion pictures were shown through the courtesy of the local Military Manpower Commission and the United States Army with past post commander, Howard Boyd, chairman of the M. M. P. Comm., and M. Sgt. Calder and Sgt. Roberts of the U. S. Army, doing the honors.

The pictures shown were "Why We Fight" and "Appointment in Tokyo."

The first picture depicted the growth of the United States from the days of Capt. John Smith and the pilgrims until the present day, giving the highlights on all past wars, dealing with aggression and invasion from sources outside the United States, including World War One.

It gradually lead up to World War Two, showing the rise of the dictators—Hitler and Mussolini—and their acts of aggression on the smaller nations of Europe and Africa—Ethiopia, Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Poland, Norway, Denmark, Holland, France and England.

It depicted the super-human efforts of the United States to stay out of World War II until for self-preservation, the United States was forced to take steps to protect its shipping on the high seas and finally the stab in the back from Japan.

The picture included a large amount of captured enemy film—German, Italian and Japanese.

The Japanese film also depicted the invasion of China and the bestial conquest of Chinese civilians—also plans for the conquest of the United States—including the sailing and progress of the Japanese Task Force which struck at Pearl Harbor on Sunday, December 7, 1941, and the surrender of General Wainwright at Corregidor and the "Death March of Bataan."

The picture "Appointment in Tokyo," showed the preparations, planning and actual combat pictures of the recapture of the islands in the Pacific—starting in Australia, leading up through the various islands to the Philippines and the final surrender on the U. S. S. Missouri in Tokyo Bay.

These pictures were immensely enjoyed by all present and were highly educational as well as historical. As one Legionnaire later remarked: "I was in it, but never knew until tonight what was going on anywhere except right in my own vicinity and I never realized what planning it took and how the plans were carried out as originally planned."

2ND-HALF FLASH BY FRANKLIN A. C. DEFEATS HATBORO

HATBORO Jan. 6—With a fast second half finish, the Franklin A. C. team, of the Bristol Basketball League, conquered the Hatboro Warriors, 41-24, last night on the latter's court.

Coach John Field, Jr., used the two-photon system to trim the Hatboro team and after a close first half, the Franklin boys scored at will during the second half.

Score at the first half whistle was 16-13, but with "Bill" Wallick and "Reds" Fiedle controlling the boards in the second half, the Franklin team registered 25 counters while holding their opponents to 11. Wallick's 12 points made him high for the winners while Hal Lowenger was outstanding for the losers.

IT IS THRIFTY TO THROW AWAY SOME DAMAGED UTENSILS

By Mrs. Emilie Kerlin Langer

(Assist. Home Ec. Representative)
To throw away sometimes is thrifter than to save. Some articles are accident hazards and should be discarded promptly.

Any chipped or cracked glassware—whether tumbler, canning jar, cooking or serving dish—should be retired from use to prevent cuts as well as possible waste of food.

Chipped enamelware also should go out of kitchen service because it may leave tiny glasslike particles in food prepared or cooked in it. Once china or pottery is cracked or chipped, it cannot be kept sanitary by ordinary dish washing. A cracked cup, therefore, is a health hazard as well as an accident hazard.

Tippy pots and pans have caused many a serious burn. Unless a cooking utensil can stand steady, it is not safe to use on the stove.

Home medicine cabinets are inclined to fill up over the years with old pills, prescriptions and remedies which are not only a nuisance but a danger to have around. They should never be saved for future use except on specific instructions from the physician and then should be labeled carefully as to use and dosage. Some drugs deteriorate with age and should not be kept around for that reason.

Other items which may wisely go out with the trash are toys with sharp points or edges or any loose parts which a child can get into his mouth. Tiny toys also have proved dangerous for young children. If the toy cannot be fixed so that it is entirely safe, it pays to throw it away, even if it is new, the specialists say.

Be sure not to throw these hazardous items on trash heaps or into open containers where children can find them.

Inside Your Congress

A World Constitution

—by—

SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

A group of intellectuals, headed by President Robert L. Hutchins of the University of Chicago, want to write a constitution for the government of the world. Among the powers of this world government would have the following:

Equip and direct the world army, which would supplant all national armies, other than small police forces. The American planners of world government no doubt suppose a world army would never, never be used against our own country and people. But the idea of a world constitution is without value unless the world government is to have the power to use its army, navy and atom-bombs against any nation whatever.

Therefore the world army could be used against us if we were bad or "imperialistic," as others may decide. Furthermore, we would be unable to resist, for under the plan our own defense forces would be liquidated.

It is interesting to contemplate American-born soldiers, commanded by foreign generals, waging war against their native country; or the nationals of any other country against their own people. Would this, in fact, be treason?

The proposed constitution also contemplates that the world government shall have the power to levy taxes all over the world. As the United States is now helping to support 16 foreign nations, including the richest, one can guess once and guess right the particular spot on the globe which would be selected for the extraction of the bulk of the money.

The world government would also have the power to decide national boundaries and form new nations. The planners do not, of course, plan that it would vote to return Alaska to Russia from whom we bought that territory in 1867. However, we do know there are men in Moscow who would like Alaska back; and if Moscow got enough votes, that would be the result.

This brings us down to the big brass tack: How is the voting to be done in One World, Incorporated? How will all these questions be decided? Who will wear the pants?

The World has about 2,250,000,000 people. Only one quarter are white. The rest are yellow, brown and black. We have 147,000,000 people, or 7%. Assuming, as we must, that in the sight of God every human being on the planet is of equal worth, there should be one vote per person. In order to be "democratic." At least each nation should have representation in the world government in proportion to its population. This is the way Congressmen are apportioned among our 48 states. Therefore, in any question vital to us Americans, we would be out-voted 93 to 7, unless we could gather or buy votes among other nations, most of whom envy us.

Any other voting arrangement which would give us representation, not according to our population, but according to our wealth, would create first class and second class citizens in the world government. Would such an arrangement lead to perpetual peace or to perpetual discord? How would second class citizens fit into the World Bill of Rights recently drafted by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and others in the United Nations?

These are some of the questions this fantastic world constitution presents to us. They cannot be shrugged off. As ex-President Hoover and Hugh Gibson say in "The Problem of Lasting Peace," "Being in a minority in a super-government the political, economic and social control of our country would ultimately pass from our hands, and all the assurances of our fundamental institutions would be lost."

ANNUAL REVIEW

U. N. SURVIVES CRITICAL YEAR,
BRANDS BERLIN BLOCKADE
RED THREAT TO WORLD PEACE

By John H. Martin
(INS Foreign Editor)
NEW YORK, Jan. 6 — (INS) — The war-born United Nations survived its most critical year in 1948 amid ominous threats of a new world conflict.

The gravest test for the peace body was Russia's land blockade of Berlin and the western allied appeal to the Security Council to do something about it.

By implication, Russia was adjudged guilty of threatening world peace.

The United States, Britain, and France dropped this formal charge under the Chapter Seven "sanctions clause" inside the Security Council in an effort to get a compromise.

Russia declared the Berlin dispute was NO business of the council — the foremost world peace agency existing — and vetoed the compromise aimed at lifting the blockade and renewing Big Four talks on applying a single Soviet currency in Berlin.

An appeal for direct Big Four negotiations was made by U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie and Assembly president Herbert V. Evatt. It fell flat.

Then the November president of the council, Juan Bramuglia of Argentina, set up a "Little Six" council currency commission to try to find a key for settlement.

East and West were cool, even to that idea, especially the western allies because Russia was accused of further dividing Berlin by the creation of a Communist separatist city government.

The communist government that defies the legally elected regime was hastily organized just before the city elections. Russia banned his balloting in her section.

The implication that Russia is a threat to world peace was stronger in the U. N. action on the Greek dispute.

Ever since the war, minority Greek communists have been trying to overthrow the Athens regime. Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, and Albania — all Soviet satellites — were formally convicted in the U. N. and sternly told NOT to give further aid to the Greek communist guerrillas.

For the first time, the U. N. recommended that all members "refrain from any action designed to assist directly or through any other government any armed group fighting against the Greek government."

Russia cannot escape U. N. legal responsibility in this bitter warfare because she and her satellites have boycotted the U. N. Balkan "watchdog commission" aimed at keeping the peace. The U. N. voted an extension to the commission over the Soviet bloc protests.

On the basis of voting results, Russia has lost ground steadily despite her persistent charges that the United States is plotting an atomic "Pearl Harbor" against Russia.

Russia lost her attempt to try to get a one-third cut in armaments among the Big Five nations. This armament reduction plan was coupled with a demand that the U. S. destroy and outlaw its atomic weapons.

The major nations frankly told Russia they are rearming because they fear Soviet expansion. They also pointed out that Russia and her Communist satellites never have demobilized on the same scale as the west.

China which has a treaty with Russia, was fighting for her life against Communist armies when Russian U. N. delegates plainly voiced their hope of a total communist victory.

This bitterness between Russia and her wartime allies has caused conflict in almost every U. N. action. It has led U. S. Secretary of State Marshall to warn Russia NOT to make the "tragic error" of making American patience for weakness.

What is often forgotten among the U. N. positive achievements are the world-wide relief and cultural accomplishments.

The U. N. World Health Organization prevented the spread of a serious cholera epidemic; the U. N. Appeal for Children has made a great stride; the International Refugee Organization has kept hope alive among the displaced persons; and there are many other such positive steps.

But the political issues overshadow all these. A veto — Russia has cast 28 — gets the headlines because political developments naturally lead the way to peace or war.

The U. N. has staggered under the Palestine issue, and no end to that conflict is yet in sight. Arabs and Jews must compromise under the weight of U. N. opinion if peace in the Holy Land ever is to be achieved.

The U. N. has slowed and often stopped hostilities merely through this weight.

Here are some of the major issues of 1948 and what has been done about them:

The Netherlands East Indies — Hostilities halted by U. N. action but no settlement yet between the Indonesian nationalists and the Dutch government.

Kashmir — Hostilities slowed in this Indian state, but U. N. mediators have failed to get India and Pakistan together for a final settlement.

Marshall aid plan — The U. N. defeated Soviet bloc charges of U. S. trade discrimination. In effect, the U. N. supported the American view that the Communist lands rejected — under Moscow direction — the Marshall aid plan, then complained because they did NOT receive its benefits.

Little Assembly — The U. N. voted to keep this interim committee another year. It was originally set up under American urging because the security council allegedly was ducking important issues. The Soviet bloc boycotts it.

Korea — Under U. N. auspices, elections were held in the U. S. occupied half of Korea. Russia refused to let the U. N. commission into her area and then announced she is withdrawing her troops by the end of the year. Russia suggested that the U. S. also pull out.

Armaments — The Atomic Energy Commission and the conventional armaments group were told to keep plugging to try to get exact figures on national military forces. Russia refuses to disclose her figures and is solely responsible for holding up the majority plan for rigid international control of armaments.

Palestine — A three-power conciliation commission is proposed to assist Arab-Jewish mediations, but such roundtable talks are a distant possibility only. The Jews meanwhile hold most of the Negev desert area and all of Galilee after defeating Arab armies.

Italian colonies — The U. N. assembly has the power to decide their disposition. A fight lies ahead.

But of all the issues the Berlin dispute is the most critical. And it really is a battle for the allegiance of 63 million people in the 142 million square miles of Germany — and control of the Ruhr "force".

The feeling among U. N. observers is that NO matter what bitter words may be spoken, the real decision in the East-West struggle will hinge on the success or failure of the Russian campaign to wreck the Marshall aid plan.

PINDAR LEADS IN SCORING IN LOCAL CAGE LEAGUE

"Johnny" Pindar, sharp-shooting forward of the Profy team, has jumped into the lead of the individual scorers of the Bristol Basketball League. In three games, Pindar has netted 87 points on 37 double-deckers and 13 fouls.

Last Sunday, Pindar broke the scoring record of the circuit when he amassed 53 points while the Profy team broke the scoring record of the league by getting 81 points.

Second to Pindar in scoring is "Dick" Mingin, pivot-man of the Fifth Ward Sporting Club. Mingin, also in three games, has hit the cords for 24 twin-pointers and 13 fouls for 61 points. "Johnny" Rodgers, of the Hibernians, is third with 45 points.

However, some teams are trailing in the number of games played and after all are on even terms there may be several shifts in the line-up scorers. In two games, "Augie" Overitt, leading scorer of last season for the Rohm and Haas team, netted 33 points. Overitt is injured and will be lost to the Rohm and Haas contingent for the remainder of the season.

The leaders:

Bristol Yacht Club Presents Racing Trophy

Fourteen members of the newly-formed Bristol Yacht Club were in attendance for the annual banquet of the National Duster Yacht Racing Association, held at the Medford Lakes Lodge, Medford Lakes, N. J., Saturday evening.

John Dodds, commodore of the Bristol Yacht Club, was elected treasurer of the association for 1949.

A perpetual trophy was presented by the Bristol club to the association which will be awarded annually to the highest point winner of all recognized regattas. The trophy was accepted by the association and presented to the 1948 winner, Miss Barbara Lippincott, a member of the Riverton (N. J.) Yacht Club.

Encased in a mahogany cabinet, the trophy is a beautiful scale model of a duster racing sailboat, with a bronze plate attached for inscription of names of annual winners.

Representatives from 19 yacht clubs in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland attended the banquet.
